Moving Theory to Practice

The Management Programs at Sam Houston State University are designed to prepare students for positions and careers requiring leadership and managerial skills. Our programs also prepare you to manage an organization’s human resources in an effective manner. By showing you how to move theories from the classroom into practice in the workplace, we can help you take your career to the next level.

Our programs are AACSB accredited and we have cutting edge teaching facilities. The high-quality degree you will earn from SHSU will help you stand out from your peers.

Many of our graduates find entry-level, middle, and top management positions such as general managers, operations analysts, supervisors, project managers, inventory controllers, compensation specialists, recruiters, office managers, and supply chain specialists. Our students are also very well prepared to continue their educational goals through graduate school.

Scholarships

Students may apply for management scholarships and non-degree specific scholarships by filling out the ScholarX online application.
