Office hours: by appointment

Prerequisites: CNE 533 (Introduction to Counseling & Guidance) & CNE 597 (Human Growth & Development Across the Life Span)

Course Description: A critical study and evaluation of the major theories of counseling with attention given to systematic ways of viewing the counseling process in the development of a working theory, and an understanding of human behavior.

Class Time/Location
This class is strictly online; you will not be asked to attend any classes for this course on campus. Your work in this course consists of: text readings, supplemental readings, discussions, journal assignments, and exams. You should adhere to the course syllabus for due dates and an understanding of the grading rubric. Any late work will result in a letter grade drop for that assignment.

Course Objectives: The Student will:
• Become familiar with the major counseling theories
• Identify the basic assumptions of normal and abnormal development held by each theory
• Recognize the impact of theory on the selection of technique
• Understand the therapeutic process of each theory
• Become minimally competent with the application of the major counseling theories
• Compare and contrast these theories in terms of their contributions, limitations, and effectiveness in counseling diverse populations
• Become familiar with the major ethical issues within the counseling profession
• Formulate a personal theory of counseling

Disability Statement:
Students with a disability that affects their academic performance are expected to arrange for a conference with the instructor in order that appropriate strategies can be considered to ensure that participation and achievement opportunities are not impaired. The physically impaired may contact the Director of the Counseling Center as chair of the Committee for Continuing Assistance for Disabled Students by telephone (extension 1720).

Course Requirements:
The Student will:
• Complete assigned readings and be prepared to discuss pertinent course content through discussion board, journal assignments, and small group activities.
• Complete three comprehensive exams.
• Prepare and present one group Wiki on a major theory.

• Short Weekly Discussions - To better comprehend the theories, students will participate in weekly discussions via the Discussion Board. Students will be required to respond to one discussion question per week.
• Journal Writing - Students will respond in a personal journal to individual exercises contained in the text, and to supplemental readings. These individual exercises will be assigned each week to further develop introspection and self-awareness, and to facilitate understanding of the theories. As stated in the text, "Because they require considerable self-disclosure, I recommend that participants have the right to maintain the privacy of their responses to these exercises" (Seligman, 2006, p. 6). Therefore, the journal exercises will be read by the professor only. Up to 10 points will be awarded for each entry based on the level of insight of the response. Entries should be approximately 1-2 pages (double spaced).
• Theory Presentations - Small group presentations will take place at the end of the course in the form of a Wiki. The presentation will be based on a major theory and will be graded on: (1) relevant content, (2) originality of presentation, (3) logical sequence of presentation, and (4) supporting information. Points will be recorded according to participation with the group. (Group 1-Freud; Group 2-Adler; Group 3-Existential; Group 4-Person Centered; Group 5-Gestalt; Group 6-Cognitive-Behavioral). Groups will be assigned the fourth week of class, along with further instructions for grading criteria and electronic submission.

DISCUSSIONS: Your responses should include 1) your own reflections and ideas, 2) insightful responses to other peer responses, and 3) attempts to create a flowing discussion with other students in the class. Please be respectful of your peers and thoughtful when responding in order to ensure these discussions are beneficial to the class as a whole. Abbreviations are not helpful; please spell out all words. Because discussions are the only way for me to measure weekly attendance, you may NOT opt out of doing a discussion. Each discussion in which you do not participate is considered an absence. Two “0” grade entries under the discussion section counts as 2 absences and results in a letter grade drop.
EVALUATION: 570 total points.
Participation in Discussion Board: 5 pts each for 50 total semester points
Exams: 100 pts each for 300 total semester points
Journal Assignments: 12 assignments worth 10 pts each for 120 total semester points
Group Wiki: 100 points
Grade Composition: A= 510-570 points; B= 450-509 points; C= 389-449 points
