Overview

This course is designed to examine the application of scientific and professional principles of psychology in the legal system, the use of social science methods to study the legal system, and the impact of law on the practice of psychology. Content areas include legal competencies, the insanity defense, jury consultation, psychologists and the death penalty, the accuracy of eyewitness testimony, prediction of violence, the psychology of victims, family law, and ethical dilemmas. Prerequisites: 6 hours of PSY courses

Although most areas of psychology and law are reviewed, this course tends to focus particularly on applications of clinical psychology to legal contexts, in part because these are the topics students have tended to request most over the years.

Required Readings

2. Additional assigned readings (book chapters and journal articles) will be available online via SHSU Blackboard

Objectives

1. To overview the domains at which the fields of psychology and law intersect.

2. To examine the tensions between the disciplines of psychology and the law, and the tensions common to psycho-legal issues.

3. To examine the ways in which the legal system influences the practice of psychology, and to examine the ways in which psychological techniques and research influence the legal system.

4. To become familiar with important case law that has helped shape the relationship between the mental health fields and the legal system.
To understand the applications of psychology to various criminal justice and correctional issues.

To consider critically psycho-legal issues as they are portrayed in the popular media and in political debate.

Attendance, preparation, and participation

Regular attendance and preparation are essential. Because the class will feature substantial discussion of detailed material, it is important that you arrive to class each day having thoroughly read the assigned material. Should you miss class for any reason, it is your responsibility to obtain notes from another student in the class.

Attendance will impact your final grade. Students who miss more than four classes will have their final course grade lowered by one letter grade. Students who miss more than eight classes will have their final course grade lowered by two letters. (Please note that this policy is more generous than the overall university policy and allows plenty of room for legitimate absences such as illness or family commitments). Please note that this policy does not make a distinction between “excused” or “unexcused” absences. You are allowed up to four absences, and may use these as you see fit. Of course, if you use these absences early in the semester, you will have none left for legitimate emergencies or illnesses later in the semester.

Please complete roll sheets as they are distributed each class period. Obviously, completing roll sheets in a fraudulent manner (e.g., marking attendance for a peer, marking one's self as present during a prior absence), constitutes an academic honesty violation. Because roll sheets will be completed at the start of class, it is important that you be punctual.

Contact and questions

I welcome visits during the regular office hours listed above. Appointments at other times may be arranged as necessary. I welcome emails at any time, and will make every effort to return these as quickly as possible. Email may be preferable for time-sensitive questions in which it would be inefficient to wait until scheduled office hours. However, please check your syllabus for answers before emailing with any questions.

Tests and Grading Plan

Final grades will be determined by your performance on four tests. The four exams, including the final exam, will occur on the dates specified below. Tests address information covered in lectures but also include questions related to information in the text and readings that is not reviewed in class. Lectures include information not addressed in the text so, again, attendance is important.
Extra credit opportunities may be available at various times throughout the semester and could account for 3 total percentage points of your class grade.

SHSU Policies:

See http://www.shsu.edu/syllabus/ for additional details on all policies below:

Academic Dishonesty: Students are expected to maintain honesty and integrity in the academic experiences both in and out of the classroom. See Student Syllabus Guidelines.

Classroom Rules of Conduct: Students are expected to assist in maintaining a classroom environment that is conducive to learning. Students are to treat faculty and students with respect. Students are to turn off all cell phones while in the classroom. Under no circumstances are cell phones or any electronic devices to be used or seen during times of examination. Students may tape record lectures provided they do not disturb other students in the process.

Student Absences on Religious Holy Days: Students are allowed to miss class and other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day, including travel for that purpose. Students remain responsible for all work. See Student Syllabus Guidelines.

Students with Disabilities Policy: It is the policy of Sam Houston State University that individuals otherwise qualified shall not be excluded, solely by reason of their disability, from participation in any academic program of the university. Further, they shall not be denied the benefits of these programs nor shall they be subjected to discrimination. Students with disabilities that might affect their academic performance should visit with the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities located in the Counseling Center. See Student Syllabus Guidelines.

Visitors in the Classroom: Only registered students may attend class. Exceptions can be made on a case-by-case basis by the professor. In all cases, visitors must not present a disruption to the class by their attendance. Students wishing to audit a class must apply to do so through the Registrar's Office.
Schedule

The outline below is tentative, provided to assist you in planning. We may progress more slowly or rapidly through these topics depending upon your response. Should substantial changes occur, I will provide an updated syllabus. Note that readings other than your text will be available on Blackboard.
