Welcome to the History of the British Empire. This is a three-hour, graduate credit course in the Sam Houston State University History Department. Our emphasis on Military History means that though we survey the Empire, we stress military related topics. This semester we will explore the British experience in the First World War.

Course Description and Objectives: This course will be conducted entirely on-line. The student will have no obligation to travel to the SHSU campus for any reason. Instead, we will use the Blackboard computer interface to read and comment on texts, to hold discussions about various assigned books, to write and share reviews and essays, and bring web resources to other members of the class. Each student will be responsible for reading and discussing our survey text of the World War I. After that, each student will have approximately six (6) weeks to read the 3 assigned subject books, presenting reviews of each. Lastly, students will have a “library” of over 25 scholarly articles devoted to various topics in the Empire and the military, giving the background of the empire in the century or so before the war. Students will also have access to JSTOR for locating articles of immediate subject interest to the various topics that will arise during the course. At the end of the class, students will produce a paper on the controversy surrounding the work and opinions of Paul Fussell. The final paper will consist of a linked review discussion of 5-6 articles covering issues raised in the Fussell debates.
Determination of Grades:
The grading scheme for this course is very simple:

Discussion/participation on the Blackboard Discussion Forums = 30%

Combined book reviews = 50% (meaning each review is just over 12% of the course)

Final Essay = 20%

A student’s grade will be determined strictly according to this formula. I am not able to allow extra work, extra credit or to curve. Grades of 90 or above will be A’s; grades of 80 through 89 will constitute B’s, etc.

Required Books: The following books are all required reading for the History of the British Empire. They are readily available at on-line book vendors like Barnes & Noble and can often be found on the shelves of well-stocked bookstores.

Ian F. Beckett: The Great War, 1914-1918

Malcolm Brown: The Imperial War Museum Book of the Somme

Paul Fussell: The Great War and Modern Memory

Charles More: Britain in the Twentieth Century (this is not mandatory, but is HIGHLY recommended to prevent confusion and lack of context, especially for the final paper)

George Robb: British Culture and the First World War

Scholarly Articles: The following constitute the basic selection of subject background articles. They should all be available on JSTOR. Students should become very comfortable using JSTOR resources to enhance their comments regarding assigned texts as well as their written reviews of books.

1960s and 1970s

1980s

1990s and 2000s

Web Resources: The following resources will provide you with additional information useful in discussion, book reviews and with your final paper. Please make frequent use of these handy reference and bibliographic databases.

COURSE POLICIES:

NOTE: Student enrollment in this course confirms that you have read and accepted these policies.

Academic Dishonesty

All students are expected to engage in all academic pursuits in a manner that is above reproach. Students are expected to maintain complete honesty and integrity in the academic experiences both in and out of the classroom. Any student found guilty of dishonesty in any phase of academic work will be subject to disciplinary action. The University and its official representatives may initiate disciplinary proceedings against a student accused of any form of academic dishonesty including, but not limited to, cheating on an examination or other academic work which is to be submitted, plagiarism, collusion and the abuse of resource materials.

Americans with Disabilities Act

It is the policy of Sam Houston State University that individuals otherwise qualified shall not be excluded, solely by reason of their disability, from participation in any academic program of the university. Further, they shall not be denied the benefits of these programs nor shall they be subjected to discrimination. Students with disabilities that might affect their academic performance are expected to visit with the Office of Services for Students with Disabilities located in the Counseling Center. They should then make arrangements with their individual instructors so that appropriate strategies can be considered and helpful procedures can be developed to ensure that participation and achievement opportunities are not impaired.

SHSU adheres to all applicable federal, state, and local laws, regulations, and guidelines with respect to providing reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities. If a student has a disability that may affect adversely his/her work in this class, then the student is encouraged to register with the SHSU Counseling Center and to talk with the instructor about how best to deal with the situation. All disclosures of disabilities will be kept strictly confidential. NOTE: no accommodation can be made until the student registers with the Counseling Center.

Religious Holidays

Section 51.911(b) of the Texas Education Code requires that an institution of higher education excuse a student from attending classes or other required activities, including examinations, for the observance of a religious holy day, including travel for that purpose. A student whose absence is excused under this subsection may not be penalized for that absence and shall be allowed to take an examination or complete an assignment from which the student is excused within a reasonable time after the absence.

"Religious holy day" means a holy day observed by a religion whose places of worship are exempt from property taxation under Section 11.20, Tax Code.
Visitors in the Classroom

Unannounced visitors to class must present a current, official SHSU identification card to be permitted into the classroom. They must not present a disruption to the class by their attendance. If the visitor is not a registered student, it is at the instructor's discretion whether or not the visitor will be allowed to remain in the classroom.

Instructor Evaluations

Students will be asked to complete a course/instructor evaluation form toward the end of the semester.
