Course Format:

Assigned readings, lectures and discussions, group activities and special presentations by invited practitioners and parents.

Course Content:

Participants will examine legal requirements and current issues in special education with particular focus on responsibilities of diagnosticians and the roles of advocates for children with disabilities.

Course Requirements:

1. Court Case Reviews: You will read 3 court cases and prepare a written summary of the key issues and their implications for practice. One court case you must review is Daniel R.R. v. State Board of Education. The other 2 court cases are your choice. Your written summary should follow the rubric provided in class and be written in a formal style, 3-5 typed pages. It is the student’s responsibility to search out these cases on your own.

2. Advocacy Assignment: Students are required to contact 2 local agencies that provide advocates for parents. You will collect contact information for these local agencies that includes the following:

- Name and address of the agency
- Contact person’s name, phone number, and e-mail (if they have one)
- The limitations, if any, of the agency – such as but not limited to times and days that they will attend ARD and any limitations as to districts for which they will advocate for parents.

This information will be submitted by the end of the second week of class.

3. Quizzes: Quizzes will be administered through Blackboard. Quizzes will cover information from both textbooks.

4. Mock ARD: Mock ARDs are conducted during class to illustrate points from point text books as they arise. Students are expected to identify and discuss the points that were stressed in class.

5. Exam: Students will respond to objective test items covering information pertaining to legal definitions and requirements, principles of IDEA, practices that support FAPE and advocacy skills and competencies for special educators.
