COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course provides an general overview and discussion of Mexican Art, Culture and Civilization. Utilizing primarily in-class conversation, students will examine the historical antecedents as well as contemporary expressions and institutions that help constitute the Mexican cultural experience. Through in class interaction with other students and outside contact with Mexican culture, students will become more aware of the social dynamics underlying Mexican society. Major course topics will include: the historical foundations of Mexico and their cultural expressions in language and the arts.

GOALS OF THE COURSE: Topics of Mexican history, art and culture will be used to have the students reach a high level of conversational proficiency. Combining their in-class discussions with their experience at different cultural sites, students should be able to converse about such general topics with almost native fluidity by the end of the course.
