

Our first presentation of the day was Scholar Nicole Lozano, Psychology, who was mentored by Heather Littleton, Ph.D.. Above you see Nicole getting advice from Graduate Mentor, Holly Tabernik, and fiancé, Chet Gasset. Congratulations Nicole on a job well done.

Our second presentation of the day was by Scholar Jason Randall. Jason's Professional mentor was Jeff Anastasi, Ph.D.. Jason's presentation was well done in spite of the technical difficulties that the room he was assigned to present in was experiencing. Jason is now enrolled in Graduate School at University of Connecticut. We are very excited to see all of the great things that we know Jason will accomplish.

Our last presentation of the day was by Scholar Elizabeth "Liz" Jackson. Liz's presentation was exceptional as well and extremely well attended. Liz is now enrolled in graduate school at Indiana University. We are very eager to see all of the great things that Liz will accomplish as a professional.

In our spare time we mingled and enjoyed other presentations. Overall this was an exciting experience for all of us.
