Directions: For each of the following sentences, bracket the dependent clauses and underline the verbal phrases, labelling each according to its kind.

1. How the cook fled from the scene of the crime remained a mystery.

2. Nagging at Holmes’s mind was his interview with the butler, who had seemed frightened, not guilty.

3. When the cook was finally recaptured, we asked her why she had been willing to leave the house unguarded by any of the other servants.

4. The jury took a bus to where the crime had occurred.

5. Some people seem to enjoy constant bickering with their spouses, but the cook had preferred simply to murder hers.

6. Thinking about murder is as tiring as the work itself.

7. Our class really enjoyed Moby Dick, written by Henry Melville.

8. The treasurer said he wanted to know the reason for the cash shortfall.

9. The prosecutor wanted to know whose voice she had heard.

10. Sobbing uncontrollably, she admitted that her entire story was a lie concocted to help her escape the gallows.