Label the clauses by pattern number:

1. My friend Oscar is a man of intelligence, honor, and integrity.

2. Interrupting when I was doing my homework, the phone rang.

3. Our company has decided to open a sports department.

4. We saw a flicker of headlights; then they disappeared.

5. Usually the tires or the upholstery wears out before anything else.

6. All the major exams are still to be taken.

7. Our new chairman is a woman whose political experience we admire.

8. What the family likes most is that new dessert.

9. Apparently your cat doesn’t like the new canned food; perhaps it doesn’t taste good.

10. Sitting on the table, a fragile blue vase was the only sign of a woman’s tastes.

11. After Ernie and Bill had risen each morning, they had chores to do.

12. Our new secretary types fast, but she doesn’t answer the phone very efficiently.

13. Neither misfortune nor good luck has caused any change in his outlook.

14. One of my favorite topics is sports.

15. A good newscaster must be one of those people whom listeners trust.

16. The professors have complained about him constantly.