INVESTING IN THE FUTURE

TUITION VS. A NEW CAR

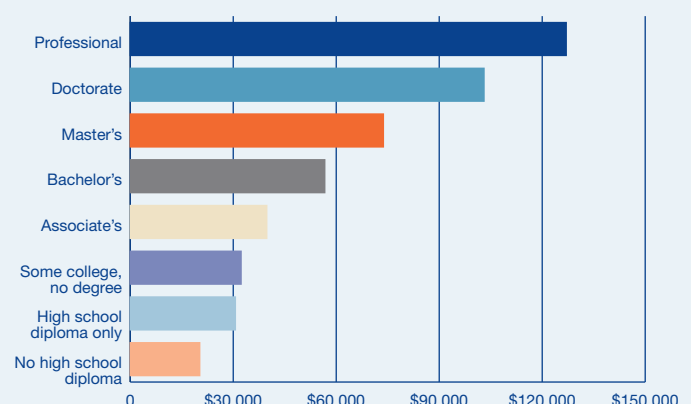

It wasn't until about 2011 that the total cost of a degree at Sam Houston caught up with the average cost of a car. While both are significant investments and remain comparable in pricing, there are some significant differences. The value of an education appreciates over time versus a car's value, which begins to drop as soon as it is driven off the lot. Cars must be replaced—the average American will purchase twelve vehicles over a lifetime. Beyond the purchase price, car ownership costs about $8,876 per year per the American Automobile Association.
