

NASSR in conjunction with NASSR 2023 announce the inauguration of
The North American Society for the Study of Romanticism's

Mentoring Program

Friday, March 31 at 12:15 pm in the Jack Parker Room of Old Main Market

The call for participants is embedded in this year's conference registration. Hosted by Mark Lussier of Arizona State University, the launch will take the form of a conversation over lunch. Here is his invitation:

Participation in this event does not impart future obligations – this is to be a generative event, inviting participants to share their ideas about the organization of this program.

All in-person conference registrants are welcome. All remote conference registrants are welcome to send ideas to mark.lussier@asu.edu

Old Main Market is a short walk from the convention center and golf carts will be available to provide transportation as well. Old Main Market is able to handle most dietary restrictions.
