Elliott T. Bowers Honors College
SAM HOUSTON STATE UNIVERSITY

Summer Seminars & Research

- HONR 3331.01: Culture and Society - The History of Now (CRN 41132) ONLINE J. Littlejohn
The online seminar will focus on recent books, articles, podcasts, and films that explore personal narratives about life in America today. Students will be asked to engage with and respond to various texts on class, race, and gender identity.
- HONR 3331.02: Culture and Society - Museums (CRN 41133) ONLINE R. Lewis
It is a fundamental drive to collect and preserve one's culture and heritage, but what exactly is the purpose of a museum? Museums 101 will introduce students to the function of museums in society by examining the history and mission of museums. Students will learn the importance of using objects to tell culturally based stories to visitors. Students will also explore the reasons why primary documents and other source materials are vital to research and interpretation. The course presents the basics of administration, collections care, research, education, and exhibition. In addition, it will explore the relevancy of museums and their tactile collections in an increasingly digital and virtual world.

Fall Seminars

A. Gravois,
P. Eaton

HONR 3322.01: Journeys- TED (CRN 81061)

ONLINE

This course offers scholars an opportunity to critically engage with TED Talks. Scholars examine TED as a cultural phenomenon; develop skills in critically analyzing TED Talks; conduct research on the impact of TED in people's lives; and develop, revise, memorize, practice, and deliver their own TED-style Talk to a live small audience of their peers. Scholars who have completed this course have gained important skills in analysis of public speech, critical thinking, analytical and persuasive writing, public speaking, and self-confidence. The course contributes significantly to personal and professional growth.

The course is primarily asynchronous, supported by some synchronous learning activities, including two full-class meetings (held via Zoom), four small group meetings (held via Zoom), and a full-day TEDxSHSU event scheduled for October 24, 2024, at the SHSU main campus in Huntsville (held in person). Students will also have asynchronous course assignments weekly throughout the term. Students who wish to enroll in this course must fill out a Course Application form and email it to honors@shsu.edu. Deadline: April 20.

HONR 3322.02: Journeys- Engagement (CRN 85694)

W 11:00 AM - 1:50 PM

J. Wozniak

The SHSU motto is "A measure of a life is its service." This Honors Seminar will expand the student's appreciation and understanding of how to go beyond service and to engage with our community. Students will learn the theoretical framework of engaged learning, the various forms of community engagement, and the tools to harness the life-long benefits of experiential learning. This team-taught course will provide students with several different community engagement perspectives and opportunities. Students will venture beyond the university classroom to engage with the local community partners in a mutually beneficial educational experience. It is hoped that students will emerge from the class with an enhanced sense of place and an appreciation of cultural humanity.

HONR 3331.01: Culture and Society- Kung Fu (CRN 81057)

R 4:00 PM - 6:50 PM

R. Lewis

In this course, we look at the history and culture surrounding Kung Fu. We will study its portrayal in the movies and popular culture. Students will learn the anatomy of Kung Fu and the muscles and mechanics behind it. Students should be prepared to do activities with controlled physical contact (Kung Fu drills and basic self-defense exercises), although no fighting will take place in the class. Martial arts attire is not required, but students must wear flexible clothing in which they can move freely. Students who demonstrate the required techniques and knowledge will earn a Yellow Belt in Kung Fu San Soo at the end of the course.

HONR 3342.02: The Word- Race and Medicine (CRN 86439)

T 6:00 PM - 8:50 PM

L. Al-Kofahy

This collaboratively taught course explores intersections of race and medicine in historical, ethical, social, and clinical contexts. After a series of introductory meetings discussing topics such as medical experiments, obstetrics, healthcare access, and disability, students will work in small groups with a faculty mentor on specific research projects. They will present their projects at the end of the semester to other students in the course, as well as Nursing students.

HONR 3365.01: Decision Making (CRN 86441)

R 11:00 AM - 1:50 PM

S. Koether

In today's complex world, the ability to make effective decisions is paramount. From selecting political representatives, heeding medical advice, or even choosing a meal, decisions have an impact, both large and small. This course delves into the intricate mechanisms and constraints behind decision-making and why even the brightest minds can sometimes arrive at incorrect conclusions. Students will cultivate a nuanced understanding of decision-making processes through interactive lectures, engaging discussions, and hands-on exercises. By exploring the interplay of worldview, bias, group dynamics, logic, and reason, participants will emerge equipped to navigate the complexities of decision-making with heightened awareness and discernment.
