All degrees require a final graduate recital, project, or thesis.

G. GPA Requirements

A minimum grade point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale is required in all coursework taken for graduate credit. All grades earned in courses taken for graduate credit will be utilized in computing the grade point average. If a course is repeated, the highest earned grade will be used for computing grade point average. A grade earned at another institution may not be used to remove a grade deficiency earned in residence at Sam Houston State University.

In order to achieve and remain in academic good standing at Sam Houston State University, a graduate student must maintain an overall grade point average of at least a 3.0 on all graduate coursework attempted.

A 3.0 overall grade point average is the absolute minimum required for graduation. A graduate student who falls below a 3.0 overall grade point average at the close of any semester during which one or more semester credit hours are attempted will be placed on probation. If an enrolled student on probation fails to achieve a minimum 3.0 overall grade point average at the close of the next semester following the starting of probation, the student will be academically terminated.

A student who earns a grade of “C” in any course (repeated or distinct course) within the academic program may have their graduate status reviewed by a committee comprised of the department/school or college’s graduate faculty. The committee will recommend an appropriate remediation for the student.

A graduate student who earns a grade of “F” in any graduate course will be terminated from graduate studies.

Those students who earn a grade of “F” during the semester of their anticipated graduation will be terminated from graduate studies and will not be eligible to graduate in that term. The appropriate academic dean may place on probation, retain on probation, or terminate any student deficient in grade points without regard to the regulations previously stated.

Any appeal for a review of the termination of graduate status should be directed in writing through the graduate advisor of the program, then to the chair of the department/school, then to the academic dean of the college, and finally to the Provos and Vice President for Academic Affairs. Refer to Academic Policy Statement 910312 for further information.

H. Scholarships & Research/Travel Money

In addition to the Graduate Assistantship and School of Music scholarships, the Graduate School has a General Graduate Scholarship. The scholarship is for $1000 per semester and students may receive the award more than once. Students can apply for it every semester.

Students can apply for the General Graduate Scholarship through Scholarship4Kats, and the deadlines are:

- August 1 for Fall enrollment
- December 1 for Spring enrollment
- May 1 for Summer enrollment

In addition, the Graduate School offers a number of Research and Travel Funds to present at a conference, attend a training program, etc. To apply for either Research or Travel Funds, visit the Graduate Student Toolkit website.

As appropriate, the major department/school will organize a committee for the administration of exams. A grade of “high pass,” “pass,” or “fail” for each exam must be filed in the office of the appropriate academic dean. Should a student fail one of more examinations, a re-examination shall be permitted per department/school or college guidelines, as appropriate. A third examination may be permitted only with the approval of the appropriate academic dean and the department/school.

Students must be enrolled at SHSU in the semester in which the comprehensive exams are administered.

SHSU School of Music: Graduate Diagnostic Theory Exam

The music theory portion of the Diagnostic Exams will be a 2-hour session. The content of the diagnostic exam covers concepts from undergraduate music theory, including music fundamentals (e.g., major and minor scales, major and minor key signatures, intervals, time signatures (simple and compound); diatonic and chromatic harmony (Roman numerals -- be sure to know chordal qualities and inversions); figured bass/4-voice part writing; and phrase/periodic analysis. For review, we recommend Kostka/Payne/Almen's Tonal Harmony, 8th edition, chapters 1-25.

DIAGNOSTIC EXAM IN MUSIC HISTORY

In the music history diagnostic exam, incoming graduate students prove an adequate undergraduate understanding of music history based on chapters 12–29, 32–33, 35, and 37 in the standard undergraduate text book:

Burkholder, J. Peter, Donald J. Grout, and Claude V. Palisca. A History of Western Music. 10th ed. New York and London: W. W. Norton & Co., 2019.

The exam focuses on major historical developments, time periods, composers, genres, forms, and musical styles between c. 1580 (i.e., the beginning of the Baroque) and 1970. The questions are in multiple choice and short answer format.

For your preparation, you will receive a PDF with a test bank of 200 question pertaining to the chapters listed above. At the end of the file there is a list of all correct answers and a reference to the respective chapter in the book for each question. Out of these 200 questions, a computer will randomly select 50 for the diagnostic exam. A minimum score of 80% (i.e. 40 questions answered correctly) is necessary for a passing grade. If a student fails the exam, she/he can retake the test two more times within the first year of study.

The Graduate Program Advisor will inform you of the next exam date. You have to sign up for the exam until 48 hours before the exam by sending an email to Dr. Aschauer. He is also the person to contact if you have any further questions. Email: mario.aschauer@shsu.edu.

Comprehensive Exam in Music History

The Master of Music degree from our School of Music is designed to develop your knowledge and skills required as a professional in the field of music. As part of this process, you are required to demonstrate your understanding of musical time periods, styles, composers, forms, and genres at the appropriate level for a graduate student at the end of his/her studies for the Master's degree. You are expected to speak with confidence and competence about music history using the professional discourse of our discipline. In doing so, you will need to use musical terminology fluently and make meaningful references to concrete musical examples. You may not use notes during either part of the music history oral exam.

The oral examination consists of two parts. Part 1 is an examination on the content of that seminar in music history which the candidate has taken as part of the Master's curriculum. Questions cover major stylistic developments of the time period, main composers, styles and genres (as per the review sheet supplied during the seminar). Furthermore, the candidate will be asked to discuss style, date, and possible composer of a number of audio examples typical for the time period. This part of the exam lasts about 15 minutes.

Part 2 is based on two essays (minimum 2500 words + bibliography each). The candidate submits the essay to the musicology faculty at the latest one week before the date of the oral exam. The essay topics are of the candidate's choosing, but must be approved by the musicology faculty in advance (form filled out and signed) and are then binding. The two elected topics must belong to different time periods and may not fall in the the time period covered in part 1. For example, if the candidate has completed the Seminar on the Classical period, she/he could choose "Bach's Sacred Cantatas" and "Schoenberg's Atonal Period" as essay topics. At the oral exam, the committee will choose one of the two topics on which the candidate will then give a 10-minute presentation. The presentation is followed by 5 minutes of Q&A.

Each essay must be based on at least five recent works of scholarship (monographs or articles) pertaining to the chosen topic in addition to standard textbooks on music history. Manuscripts are to be typed in 12pt serif font (e.g., Times, Palatino, or Garamond), double spaced. References follow the Chicago footnote and bibliography style (current edition of the Chicago Manual of Style and/or D. Kern Holoman, Writing about Music: A Style Sheet, 3rd ed. [Oakland, CA: University of California Press, 2014]). Graduate level of writing (including grammar and spelling) is required. The title page follows this format:
