

Alex Tottser

Thesis Defense
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
Department of Political Science
MA, Political Science

Deindustrialization and the Republican Party Realignment in the 2016 Election

This study examines how the social and economic impacts of deindustrialization led to a realignment of the Republican Party during the 2016 Election. Data from institutions such as the St. Louis Federal Reserve and the Brookings Institute help explain how these changes caused the Republican Party to embrace populism and anti-globalism after Trump's victory in the 2016 Election.

Event Information

Date: 07/05/2022

Time: 2:00PM CT

Location: Zoom

Committee Members

Dr. Eric Svensen

Dr. Austin Bussing

Dr. Tamara Waggener

Sam Houston State University

PUBLIC DEFENSE ANNOUNCEMENT