Single Case Example of the Application of the Novel Use of Therapeutic Percussion Lessons

This study examines the effects of therapeutic percussion lessons on gross motor coordination and social skill development of an adolescent diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder. Recorded clinical videos show how this clinical protocol was implemented and track the clients' progress over time. In addition, the therapist's clinical journals provide context on how and why the therapist made certain clinical decisions.

Event Information
Date: June, 30th 2021
Time: 11:00 A.M.
Location: Zoom

Committee Members
Dr. Carolyn Moore
Dr. Amy Smith
Dr. Nancy Stockall