Dispute Resolution and Formal Grievance Procedure

SUBJECT: Dispute Resolution and Formal Grievance Procedure

PURPOSE: To provide a standard procedure whereby a current employee (faculty or staff), who feels aggrieved may seek redress.

POLICY: It is the policy of Sam Houston State University (University) that any employee who has a problem, complaint, or dissatisfaction with the institution as an employer, has a conflict with a supervisor, or dispute with a coworker may file a grievance when there has been a violation of policy, procedure, regulation, or law. The grievance process is available to address issues related to wages, hours of employment, or conditions of work, including work performance-related issues. Employees are assured of timely and thorough consideration of any grievance filed. Each employee is assured freedom from interference, coercion, discrimination, and reprisal in filing grievances. All personnel actions are reviewed to ensure Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) compliance.

The University's policy and procedures for grievance rights are established by the Texas Government Code § 617.005 and Texas State University System (TSUS) Rules & Regulations, Chapter V, § 2.14. This policy (HR-06) provides the procedures for grievances and sexual misconduct Findings and/or sanction appeals referenced in the TSUS Rules and Regulations, Chapter V, § 2.14. In the event of any conflict between this policy and the TSUS Rules and Regulations, the Rules and Regulations shall control.

1. Employee Grievances

The Human Resources Department (HR) will assist any employee in understanding the grievance procedure. The Grievance Statement Form must be used to provide notice of a grievance. HR acts as a neutral and investigative resource rendering advice to both the employee and the department when necessary. HR will engage in conversations with all parties regarding concerns and provide appropriate guidance; however, all statements made and documents submitted to HR are considered part of the official personnel record of the grievance. HR will contact and involve University administration as appropriate and necessary.

Only one subject will be covered in any one grievance. A written grievance must be submitted with a clear and concise statement of the policy, procedure, regulation, or law that was allegedly violated, the date of the violation or incident, description of the issue involved, and outcome the grievant seeks.

Allegations of sexual misconduct or harassment are not governed by this policy and shall instead be addressed in the TSUS Sexual Misconduct Policy and Procedures (Sexual Misconduct Policy). An appeal of a Finding of sexual misconduct and/or a sanction related to such Finding is governed by the procedures in Section 4 below. Employees may bring other complaints of a discriminatory nature under the University's Non-Discrimination Policy PRE-29.

2. Separated Employees

Employees separating from the University are not provided access to the grievance process. However, the University reserves the right to investigate any illegal activity or violations of civil rights. Separating employees are encouraged to submit written notice with a detailed summary of such activity to the AVP for People and Procurement Operations (AVP) within ten (10) working days of leaving the University.

3. Procedures for Grievance and Appeal

The steps below are to be followed to ensure prompt and orderly handling of grievances:

STEP ONE

- (a) Employees must first notify their supervisor/chair, in writing by using the Grievance Statement Form, within ten (10) working days after learning of the action or condition giving rise to the grievance. A thorough review of Step One requirements by both employee and supervisor/chair is highly encouraged.
- (b) Within five (5) working days of the notice, the supervisor/chair, grieving employee, and department head or dean shall schedule and hold a meeting to discuss the grievance and develop a written dispute resolution plan. When a grievance is filed against an Assistant/Associate Vice President, Dean, or Division or Senior Vice President as the respondent, the Step One meeting occurs between only the grieving employee and the respondent.
- (c) If the dispute is with a coworker, as part of the Step One process, employee and supervisor/chair will discuss the matter with the coworker and the supervisor/chair in an attempt to informally resolve the conflict. Employees and supervisors/chairs engaged in the grievance process shall make reasonable efforts to resolve the issue efficiently and expeditiously.
- (d) Step One is intended as an initial informal dispute resolution phase. This step shall be addressed as an interest-based, collaborative problem-solving process between all parties with the purpose of preserving working relationships and resolving the conflict.
- (e) During the Step One dispute resolution process, the following should occur:
 - (1) COMMUNICATE ABOUT THE ISSUE – The parties should speak and listen with the goal of understanding the issue that needs to be addressed and to help facilitate consideration of the interests of all participants.

- (f) If the grievance involves an institutional policy or procedure, the grievant or the supervisor may request an explanation of the policy or procedure from the HR Department.
 - (g) In the event an employee's grievance alleges discrimination based on race, creed, ancestry, marital status, citizenship, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, veteran's status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression or other criteria prohibited by law or policy, the supervisor shall transfer the matter in accord with the procedures detailed in the Non-Discrimination Policy PRE-29.
