1. The Texas Workers' Compensation Act

- a. The Employer Liability Act established the Texas Workers' Compensation System. The intent of the law is to protect and benefit the employee by providing speedy, simple, effective, and inexpensive relief, without regard to the fault of the employer, the employee, or third parties.
- b. The State of Texas is self-insured, and administers the state's workers' compensation system. All claims are filed with and processed by the State.

2. Eligibility

- a. All university state employees including full-time, part-time, temporary, and student employees are eligible to file claims.
- b. Generally speaking, a state employee is a person who is in the service of the state. However, the following people are not considered employees of the state for purposes of workers' compensation: independent contractors, visitors, volunteers, members of the state military forces, persons covered by federal workers' compensation, prisoners and clients or patients of a state institution or agency.
- c. Unless an employee notifies his or her employer within five (5) days of beginning employment that they do not desire to be covered by workers' compensation, and prefers instead to keep the common-law right to recover damages for personal injury or death, then workers' compensation is the employee's exclusive remedy for an on-the-job injury.

- d. To receive workers' compensation payment, a state employee must suffer an occupational illness, disease, or injury in the course and scope of employment on or after their first official duty date as provided in the Texas Workers' Compensation Act.

3. Benefits

Texas Workers' Compensation provides for both medical expenses and for time lost from work due to an on-the-job injury. Benefits are paid in accordance with formulas established by the Texas Workers' Compensation Act as amended. In fatal cases beneficiaries are entitled to compensation.

4. Employee's Responsibility

- a. Immediately report or notify the supervisor or department head of any on-the-job injury or occupational disease/illness. The employee notice should be within (48) hours.
- b. No later than three (3) working days following notification of any on-the-job injury or occupational disease/illness, the employee must submit the required injury reports and forms to Human Resources for processing. A State claim number will be provided to the employee by the Human Resources Workers' Compensation Specialist, after the initial claim has been filed.
- c. With the exception of emergency medical care, employees must treat with an approved plan provider through the State's IMO Med-Select Network. The treating doctor will provide all care and make referrals to specialists as needed. Some services will require prior authorization.
- d. Employees should inform their treating doctor that their injury/illness or disease may be covered by workers' compensation and provide their State claim number.
- e. It is the employee's responsibility to report his/her recovery progress and the date expected for returning to work or intermittent leave requirements to their Department Head and the Human Resources Department. A Return To Work Status Form from the University Return to Work Program packet or a detailed doctor's note indicating fitness to work should be submitted to the employer after each visit to the treating physician. Failure to comply with reporting requirements can be considered job abandonment, and result in termination.

5. Employer's Responsibility

- a. When an on-the-job injury occurs, provide aid immediately to the injured party. If the injury is serious, call an ambulance to get medical help as quickly as possible. If the injury is minor, report it to the supervisor who will assist in determining whether first aid or medical aid is required. Human Resources will immediately notify the State Office of Risk Management by telephone if the injury is severe or results in death.
- b. Administer workers' compensation claims in accordance with the procedures prescribed by the State Office of Risk Management.
- c. Advise employees of workers' compensation eligibility, the IMO Med-Select network, and the workers' compensation return to work program during new employee orientation sessions.
- d. Promote a safe and accident free environment; disseminate information relating to accident prevention; give prompt attention to the elimination of unsafe conditions or safety hazards; adhere to safety policies and regulations of the University and State of Texas; and ensure that procedures are instituted to report all workers' compensation incidences through the employee's supervisor, department, Environmental Health and Safety Coordinator and Human Resources Department.

6. Drug Free and Safe Workplace Responsibility

Sam Houston State University
A Member of The Texas State University System

In order to comply as a federal contract employer with the Drug Free Workplace laws; to foster a safe workplace in accordance with state Workers' Compensation Risk Management Directives; to maintain the workplace security as required by the Texas Education Security Sensitive Positions Code; and, to satisfy the Department of Transportation Safety Sensitive Driver regulations the following responsible, employer practices shall be without discrimination, bias, or civil rights infringement, and be standardly applied to all employees and investigations:

- a. All injured employees with lost time or medical expenses may be subject to a drug screening by the attending physician/facility at the employer/state expense.
- b. The Environmental Health and Safety Coordinator when notified of a workers' compensation injury or potentially unsafe work activity or site shall conduct, with full authority and cooperation of all involved employees, parties, witnesses and relevant supervisors, a safety investigation.

7. Return To Work Program

It is the policy of Sam Houston State University to provide a return to work program as a means to return employees to meaningful, productive employment following injury or illness. When an employee is not physically capable of returning to full duty within seven (7) days of the date of injury or illness, the supervisor should contact the Human Resources Department to establish, when practical, a return to work plan in compliance with the guidelines issued by the Risk Management Division of the Texas Workers' Compensation Commission. Reference: "Risk Management for State Agencies", Volume III, Section One, Chapter 5. This return to work program shall not be construed as recognition that any employee who participates in the program has a disability as defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Family Medical Leave Act as they relate to injured employees.

8. Claim Filing Procedures and Forms

Contact the Human Resources Workers' Compensation Specialist for claim filing procedures and forms.

9. Safety and Risk Management Follow-Up

Employees and their immediate supervisors that have been involved in a workers' compensation incident should and are strongly encouraged to contact the Environmental Health and Safety Coordinator to arrange for safety assessment, education and training. This is a pro-active measure intended to assist and protect the employee, supervisor and University by bringing about the awareness of risk management and safety issues.
