HISTORY

Sam Houston State University, located in Huntsville, Texas, serves one of the most diverse populations of any educational institution in the state. The university is committed to the development of its creative resources so that it can adapt to the changing educational needs of its constituency while maintaining the highest quality in the traditional curricula. The institution was created by the Texas legislature in 1879 as Sam Houston Normal Institute to train teachers for the public schools of Texas. During the following four decades, instruction was offered in the natural sciences, agriculture, home economics, manual training, geography, sociology, and foreign languages. The baccalaureate degree was first awarded in 1919.

The next twenty years witnessed rapid and dramatic changes, including a name change to Sam Houston State Teachers College in 1923. Two years later, the college was admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) as an accredited institution of higher learning. The institution began to expand its programs, and a graduate degree was authorized in 1936, a development which expanded the curriculum from its sole emphasis on teacher training to emphases on preparation in a variety of fields.

Following World War II, an increase in students and faculty as well as a wide range of faculty-research activities provided impetus for the emergence of a multi-purpose institution. By 1960, about 25 percent of the graduating seniors were receiving degrees in fields other than teaching. Degrees were offered in the social and communication sciences; the biological, physical, and soil sciences; business administration; the fine arts; the humanities; and education. A growing emphasis on research allowed faculty to make significant contributions in their fields beyond the classroom, and these activities were accompanied by an increasing diversity in the student body as more out-of-state and foreign students began seeking degrees at Sam Houston. In recognition of these developments, the institution's name was changed by the Texas legislature to Sam Houston State College in 1965, and in that year the Texas legislature established as an integral part of the institution The Institute of Contemporary Corrections and the Behavioral Sciences.

During the following years, there was a rapid increase in the enrollment of students with diversified backgrounds, interests, and aspirations, which necessitated continuous examination of programs, faculty, and facilities. The number of graduate degrees conferred increased significantly in the late 1960s, and the Texas legislature, recognizing the changes that had taken place during the course of the institution's history, changed the name of the institution to Sam Houston State University in 1969.

In the decade of the 1970s, the university continued to expand its offerings to keep pace with its dynamic environment by adding degree programs in such fields as computer science and environmental science. New graduate degrees, such as the Master of Library Science, the Master of Fine Arts, and the Doctor of Philosophy in Criminal Justice were added. These additions were accompanied by significant improvement in faculty credentials and growth in faculty research activities.

Currently Sam Houston State University, a member institution in The Texas State University System, is organized academically into four colleges: Arts and Sciences, Education and Applied Science, Business Administration, and Criminal Justice. Students are offered an extensive range of bachelor's and master's degrees, as well as the Doctor of Philosophy in Criminal Justice, the Doctor of Philosophy in Forensic Clinical Psychology, and the Doctor of Education in Educational Leadership. The faculty and the university are recognized regionally, nationally, and internationally.

ASSUMPTIONS ABOUT THE PLANNING PROCESS

Effective planning is based on assumptions about future economic, technological, academic, political/legal, social/demographic, and philanthropic trends. It is also based on commonly held assumptions about the planning process itself. Assumptions underlying the Sam Houston State University strategic planning process include the following:

- Strategic planning for a university is the process of constructing a plan for the effective development and delivery of quality education, at both undergraduate and graduate levels.
- Strategic planning at Sam Houston State University begins with the President's vision regarding the future of the institution and a commitment to the fundamental spirit of the Coordinating Board-approved mission statement.
- The current Sam Houston State University strategic plan is subject to change as societal, state, and local needs change and as the institutional mission evolves.
- Environmental trends inform institutional directions in the strategic planning process.
- The environmental scans and the general institutional goals and strategic directions are shared with faculty, administrative staff, and students for their discussion, understanding, and input.
- The strategic plan is tightly integrated into the budget planning process.

ENVIRONMENTAL SCAN 2003 - 2004

- c. A greater interdependence among the public schools, private schools, community colleges, and universities will evolve and lead ultimately to the more efficient use of education dollars.

INSTITUTIONAL GOALS

President James F. Gaertner has established three major categories of goals which will provide focus for the strategic planning process:

Academic Standards and Programs

Academics must be the first order of business at Sam Houston State University. A university can be no better than its faculty and its programs. Examples of important issues in this area include: faculty hiring and promotion policy, expectations for and support of scholarly activity, adding new and innovative programming, international collaborations, continuing and executive education, and distance learning. Additionally, the “Closing the Gaps” initiatives, including graduation rates and retention, are important considerations in the academic standards genre.

University Image and Exposure

Sam Houston State University is a wonderful institution with an almost unparalleled history in the state. We currently are not benefiting adequately from this heritage. Examples of issues in the area include: improved alumni relations, a major capital campaign, and a strong public relations campaign.

Campus and Community Atmosphere and Culture

Areas for consideration here include: University and community collaboration; appropriate sensitivity to student, faculty, and staff diversity; and student life issues, such as quality housing and adequate parking.
